I FOUND LOVE

a valentine poem inspired by ed sheeran's song "perfect' i found love when i found you two tender buds blooming into petals in each other's arms we survived the rains with the sun in our hearts and we laughed when life wagged a finger in our face because we knew that in the end, love would win this race darling, together we shall win this war and turn back the clock when aging knocks on the door when wrinkles play mischief with your makeup i see tomorrow smiling in your eyes and its golden rays can eclipse the sun that's how i knew i was made for you baby, let's make our home a nest of straws to leave plenty of room for life's many flaws for things break easily when we hold them too strong darling, i will be that voice that the ages could not ignore bearing aloft the banner of our love when your feet miss their heartbeat mid-dance i'll be there to keep you strong
